EL DORADO COUNTY'S ONLY DAILY NEWSPAPER

VOLUME XLVIII

PLACERVILLE, EL DORADO COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, JUNE 6, 1938

NUMBER 131

Festivals to the right of us, festivals to the left of us—

Auburn held its annual Gold Rush over the weekend and Amador County its Italian picnic and rodeo.

Among those who went south on Sunday were District Attorney Henry S. Lyon, Norman Robotham, Rowland Healy, Bob Hook, Sheriff George M. Smith, John A. Raffetto, Jr., John A. Raffetto, Sr., and a large number of others, not so widely known but equally enthusiastic celebrants.

Folsom, dern 'em, beat us two games yesterday. The Bartletts dropped a home game in the Placer-Nevada League and the Merchants went to Folsom and found collections mighty poor in the Foothill League. Mebbe we shouldn't have predicted.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Goodrich and Mr. and Mrs. George Green Sunday at their summer homes near Al Tahoe.

Mrs. Lyman Bender and son, Joseph, were in town Monday from Pleasant Valley en route to Sacramento.

M. D. Nixon, Charles Richards and Dr. Delucchi, all of Amador County and well and favorably known in El Dorado county, are among the nobles of Ben Ali Temple, of Sacramento, attending the Shrine Convention this week at Los Angeles.

The Farm Advisor is abreast of the times. With this a political year, he has obtained a number of booklets on the treatment of fences. Mr. Lilley says the booklets are intended for the use of farmers, but we imagine any political candidates who may feel a need to "look to their fences" will be welcome to a copy, too.

Superintendent Fitzgerald was expecting to complete his work on a majority of the school district election returns this afternoon, and the county high school board meets tonight to canvass the vote in the high school district in which Mr. Irving was very probably re-elected.

Miss Margaret Scherrer was up from San Francisco to spend the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Scherrer.

Anselmo Lewis, of Eldorado Forest staff, was at Sacramento on business at the Land Office on Monday.

Ranger George B. Young moved to Lumberyard Ranger Station for the summer season on Friday, and now all rangers on the forest are at their district headquarters.

Regular meeting of the city council at city hall tonight.

Secretary B. E. Haslam, of the agricultural conservation association, was at Waite's Station, Amador County, Monday on business.

Birth of a daughter, Sally Ann Riggs, to Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Riggs, of Placerville, on June 4, is recorded in a certificate filed Monday with County Recorder Charles Marsh.

Others at the Auburn Gold Rush Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. James P. Morton, County Clerk Arthur Kozletzke, Thomas Smith, Charles Henningsen and Supervisor Brecklove, of the Georgetown district.

All members of the Board of Supervisors were "on deck" Monday morning for their regular June meeting.

Mrs. W. E. Benson was a Monday caller from Summit district.

Mrs. D. W. Robinson drove to Oakland over the week-end to meet her niece, Miss Billie Johnson, of Portland, Ore., who arrived by boat and who is here for a vacation visit at the Robinson home.

Nomination petitions were taken out Saturday at the county clerk's office by Ellen U. Hogan and Harry L. Reese, candidates for superintendent of schools; and on Monday by Ruby G. Melchior, a candidate for Superintendent of Schools, and Jane McCusker, candidate for County Recorder.

Senator Reynolds Wins Carolina Contest

RALEIGH, N. C., (P)—Sen. Robert R. Reynolds defeated Rep. Frank Hancock for the North Carolina senatorial nomination by nearly 100,000 votes, tabulation of Saturday's primary disclosed today.

Loomis hammered out a 15 to 5 victory over Auburn Sunday to drag the Cubs from the top of the ladder and they were replaced by the Folsom Club which took a 3 to 2 win from the Bartletts at M. P. Bennett, Jr. Memorial Park.

In other games around the circuit, Colfax defeated the Roseville Tigers and the Roseville W. & R. nine took a win from Grass Valley.

Considering the lure of other attractions for the day, a good-sized gathering of fans was at Bennett Park to welcome the Barts in their return to the home field and their reward was a fast and well-played ball game which had a bad eighth inning.

The Barts had the bases loaded in the eighth, with nobody out, when some of them became a little over-anxious to get their feet on home plate and the result was that the scoring op-

Mount Mayon, In Philippines, Belching Lava After 10-Year Period Of Inactivity

LEGASPI, Albay Province, P. I., (P)—Immense clouds of smoke accompanied intensified activity of volcanic 7,916-foot Mount Mayon tonight as Philippine army troops arrived to supervise hasty evacuation of citizens in the district.

In the danger were Legaspi, provincial capital, with its population of 50,000, and eight neighboring villages—four of them on the slopes of the world's most perfect volcanic cone.

All schools were closed in the immediate vicinity of the volcano. Discharges of ashes, rocks and lava spouted high in the sky. Towns so far have not been damaged seriously but Lieutenant Colonel Luis Ramos expressed anxiety over Mayon's behavior.

Mount Mayon is second highest of the approximately 20 active volcanoes in the Philippine Archipelago. Mount Mayon has not been active as a volcano in ten years.

Mrs. Mary Ford Bayles Rites Held Monday

Last rites for Mrs. Mary Ford Bayles, a native of Placer County and for many years a resident of El Dorado County, who passed away on Friday at a hospital in Sacramento, were held at the graveside at the family plot at Union Cemetery early Monday afternoon.

The service at the cemetery followed an earlier service held at the Airport Methodist Church, at North Sacramento, in which community Mrs. Bayles had spent the past eighteen years.

Mrs. Bayles was the mother of Carlton Bayles, of Fruit Ridge, and of Rex Bayles, of Oakland, and of the late Alice Bayles and the late Vern Bayles, and was the wife of the late Jesse Bayles.

Mrs. Clarence Best III At Home Of Daughter

Mrs. Clarence Best, of Folsom, for many years a resident of the Clarks-ville vicinity, is critically ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Cyril Heuser, at Shingle Springs.

POLITICIANS have their ears to the ground today listening for returns from the Iowa primary, in which Representative Oth O. Wearing, left, administration favorite, is contesting with Senator Guy M. Gillette, right, for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Senator Gillette stood out against the President's Court Enlargement and Wage-Hour bills.

Congressman, Candidate For Governor, Pays Weekend Visit To Open Campaign

SAN FRANCISCO — Congressman John F. Dockweiler, Representative of the Sixteenth District of California, and Democratic candidate for Governor arrived in San Francisco Saturday from Washington, D. C., on a flying visit to open Northern California headquarters for the gubernatorial campaign.

Representative Dockweiler stated he was given permission by the speaker of the house of representatives to make a hurried overnight trip to San Francisco to fire the opening guns which marks the official commencement of the state-wide campaign.

From San Francisco, Dockweiler left by auto for an open air address at Kearney Park, Fresno, Saturday evening. He then proceeded to Los Angeles to take an active part in opening the Shrine convention over the weekend. He then plans to hurry back to Washington until Congress adjourns for the summer recess on June 15.

Conferring briefly with a committee of campaign managers, workers and friends here, candidate Dockweiler named the following as among those to head his state and county candidacy campaign: William K. Young of Los Angeles, state campaign manager; Ollie Mapes, Sacramento county chairman; Senator A. L. Pierovich, Amador county chairman; Hugo Benson, El Dorado county chairman.

WARREN ENDORSED FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL BY CONVENTION

Earl Warren, widely known California civic and fraternal leader and for fourteen years district attorney of Alameda County, received the unanimous endorsement of the California District Attorneys' Association in his candidacy for Attorney General.

This is according to District Attorney Henry S. Lyon and Deputy Robert E. Roberts, who spent Friday and Saturday at the annual meeting of the district attorneys at Del Monte.

Mr. Warren is a candidate on the Republican and Democratic tickets for the office filled so ably for many years by Attorney General U. S. Webb, who has announced he will not be a candidate for re-election.

SUPERVISOR BASSI TO BE CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

Dan M. Bassi, Supervisor from the Fourth District, will be a candidate for re-election, it was announced Monday morning.

Mr. Bassi, who is completing his first term as a Board member, indicated he will make a formal statement of his candidacy at the time of filing his nominating petition.

"I hope to attend to the matter as soon as the business of the current board is disposed of," Mr. Bassi said.

BOYS EDIT PAPER

MARION, O., (P)—Marion's newest newspaper, The Marion Front Page News, comes off the press every two weeks and is published by a staff of four 9-year-old boys, fifth grade pupils. The paper sells for 1 cent and has a circulation of 35.

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. T. Schultz are visiting relatives for a few days at Yreka.

Here's "Elmer"! He's Hob-Nobbing With Edsel Ford

DETROIT, (P)—Elmer Zook took off in his glider Sunday for points unknown.

Zook had traveled about 30 miles when he was caught in a downdraft. An emergency landing was in order, and Zook headed for the biggest and smoothest lawn in sight.

His bumpy landing in a flower bed brought the owner running from the house. Zook explained how he happened to drop in, and the owner of the emergency field helped him dismantle the glider and store it in a garage.

Then he ordered his chauffeur to bring out the town car and drive Zook home.

As they left the estate, Zook asked the chauffeur:

"Who is that guy?"

"That," said the chauffeur, "is Edsel Ford."

GOLD HILL NATIVE TAKEN SUNDAY

Surviving are four brothers, Charles, Adam, Albert and George Rogers, and three sisters, Mrs. Blanche Grant, Mrs. Jane Brown and Mrs. Hattie Coval; the latter all resident at Sacramento.

A new catalog and index of all publications on mineral resources and geology of California for the years 1931-1936 inclusive is just off the state press, and is on sale for $1.25 (postpaid), which represents printing costs only. It is cloth bound, well-printed, systematically arranged, an extensively indexed.

In publishing this report, the Division of Mines is serving the public need for finding what is printed on any subject related to minerals and their industry, statistics, mining development, oil and gas fields, geological formations and their history, earthquakes, underground water resources, fossils and their relation to the study of rocks and mineral products.

Fred Spriggs was in town Monday from his resort, Fred's Place, and reports the large amount of water in the hills, resulting from the heavy winter pack, is slowing the start of the summer vacation season.

COLOMA TO HEAR CANDIDATES

State Farm Bureau President Unable To Attend Meeting Of Camino Center Tuesday Night

Camino center will have its meeting on Tuesday night at the Camino clubhouse and officers of the center announce Monday morning they had received word from Ray B. Wiser, state Farm Bureau Federation president, that he will be unable to attend the meeting.

Mr. Wiser's visit had been planned for some time and the announcement was a disappointment to those in charge. However, Mr. Wiser's letter stated he had arranged for S. G. Rubinow to attend the meeting and speak in his stead.

Mr. Rubinow was for several years associated with the public relations department of the University of California and in widely known throughout the state. He is at present the state president of the California Farm Bureau public relations department.

The entertainment will consist of contributions from representatives of each of the seven Farm Bureau centers in the county.

Shrine Arrives At Los Angeles

Steam Trombones Blare "Here We Come" As Nobles Gather For National Meet

LOS ANGELES, (P)—Giant Steam trombones blared "California, here we come" for miles over southern California countryside today, as special trains rolled into Los Angeles with thousands of red fezzed Shriners for the national convention opening here tomorrow.

Shriners arrived from temples in Chicago, Charleston, W. V., Montreal, Baltimore, Omaha, Philadelphia, Columbus, Indianapolis, Sacramento, Minneapolis and Pittsburgh.

Two special trains carrying the Minneapolis delegation awakened most of southern California at an early hour. Attached to the first car of each train was a powerful steam whistle with a trombone slide. The Minneapolis Shriners pumped out "California, Here We Come," as the trains drew in from the desert. It was heard farther than the locomotive whistles.

A siren audible for eight miles was aboard a special train bearing San Francisco Shriners this morning.

Eagles' Installation Put Over To June 27

The joint installation of officers of Placerville Aerie No. 889, F. O. E. and their auxiliary, which had been scheduled to be held Monday night, June 13, has been postponed until Monday night, June 27, it was announced by officers of the aerie.

The later date was deemed better, since a number of the officers elect are among the delegates from the aerie who later this week will attend the state aerie meeting at San Diego, and may not return from that meeting until too late to participate in a meeting on June 13.

THE Book Mark

We have heard it said that your true American comes from the Middle West as the people on the coast are being continually exposed to non-American influences. Which may all be true but we have been reading Frazier Hunt's "One American" and it almost makes us think that way. This is the Frazier Hunt. Spike to his friends, who has been writing the articles on Dr. Datoe in the Saturday Evening Post. Famous in the world over as a journalist, Spike remains a natural American, a sort of "country boy out to see the sights" in all of his reportings.

If you are from the Middle West, you will relish reading about his childhood when the trotting horse set the pace for the countryside. But there was good food in most of the cupboards, family ties were strong and the Indian summer twilights were something to remember.

Somehow, textbook learning never meant very much to Spike Hunt. He had to go and see for himself. He went and saw just about all the important places and all the important people. Selling his country newspaper in Alaska, Illinois, in the last of the horse and buggy days, he went to New York where he began his writing career. To France in 1918, to North Russia, to Ireland, full of faith and dreams but also full of hatreds, to Mexico, to India where he talked with Gandhi and to about every other place in the Atlantic.

He worked with Floyd Gibbons. He knew Sinclair Lewis intimately in the days when Lewis was young and emotional. He met Bernard Shaw and relates a typical instance of Shaw's rudeness. He talked to Henry Ford at the time that Ford was making a song and dance about Jews. He looked into the earnest eyes of the Japanese Kaga, listened to Chiang-Kai Shek's dream of a new China and taught the Prince of Wales how to shoot craps. With his wife he lunched with the Coolidges on liver and bacon in the White House. He interviewed Herbert Hoover and Franklin Roosevelt and he gives an unprejudiced estimate of the two men.

As you might expect, these experiences have had their effect upon the man. For one thing, he is definitely on the side of the under dog. Having learned a fine humility for himself, he understands greatness in others. His final assertion in this — "No matter where our sympathies may be America must keep aloof from war. We have our own war to make within our own land: the old war against poverty, ignorance, disease, prejudice. Let us center on that war."

Now let us turn to another book and see what a woman journalist has to say about it. Irene Kuhn is "Assigned to Adventure" given the woman's side of it. It is a more frivolous book as Mrs. Kuhn talks freely about her robin's egg blue kimono and the ritzy hat with the cherries on it that knocked 'em cold when she walked down the Parisian boulevards.

Irene Kuhn got her newspaper training not out of text books but from hard-boiled city editors who had to have assignments on time come hell or high water. She went to Paris where she too worked under Floyd Gibbons and almost cooked her goose with him when she went off to the Orient giving her paper an hour's notice. In Paris she worked hard but managed to learn a thing or two about the technique of the American male on the loose.

In Shanghai she had enough adventures to fill a dozen books. Romance too, for she married and she tells how she learned to shortcut efficiently through housework. She guided Margaret Sanger of birth control fame through the native quarter of Shanghai. Carl Crow was her friend before he became a celebrity. She gives a hilarious account of how her husband entertained the High Lama of Tibet (women could not remain under the same roof with the Lama) who had never seen modern plumbing, typewriters or radios.

Experiences in New York follow where Peggy Hopkins Joyce squirts $65 perfume on her and Ruth Snyder gives her a final interview. There is an interval of scenario writing in Hollywood. Having written an adaptation of one of Sax Rohmer's Fu Manchu stories for the screen, Mrs. Kuhn tells about the filming and how Lewis Stone and Myrna Loy adapted themselves to the principle roles.

She sums up her life thus: "Turn the calendar back, give me another chance and I'd do it all over again; nor would

I take a million dollars cold for the experience. I wouldn't give up one heart-ache or trade any part of the agony or high adventure for a chance to live my life again in security and peace. To live close to reality, is really to live."

Both of these books are written simply as neither writer uses a fifty cent word when a twenty-five cent one does as well. They are the very best kind of escape kooks as they take us out of our own little individual nut shells and give a sweep and a lift to our thoughts.

TRAPPERS FIND LILY GARDENING HELPS BOOST INCOME

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The Creole lily, part of the everyday scene in Plaquemines parish south of here, has assumed financial importance.

For years the French and Slav trappers were accustomed to look upon the abundant lily merely as just another flower. The men, busy catching alligators and muskrats, were difficult to convince that the lilies represented "white gold."

It was, they said, "see-see stuff, not for grown men." Attractive, perhaps, for the small front yards of their homes, but not worth the attention of men busy with larger problems.

Today the hardy natives of the South Louisiana parish have more than a million lily bulbs pushing up in a narrow 30-mile area, the only place in North America where the flower is grown on such a huge scale.

Although the lily has been considered a "fill-in" between the trapping seasons, residents of the parish are depending upon it more than ever because of a continued scarcity of alligators and muskrats.

Because of wet ground Colusa growers had to use airplanes to apply pest control material on their orchards.

PARADE OF SPORTS

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, (AP)—If I ever become a fugitive from justice, with the constables hot on my trail, I know exactly what I am going to do to foil them.

My plan is a simple one, and involves no changing of names, no growing of beards, no sulking down back alleys. I will simply join the hammer-throw squad of any college track team. The moment the coach issues me my short pants and hammer I will be as completely removed from public notice as though I had been swallowed into the earth.

It was not until I paid a visit to the inter-collegiate A.A.A. track meet at Randall's Island that I fully realized the absolute obscurity of the hammer throwers. I went to Randall's Island to fill a gap in my sports education. I had never seen a hammer thrower throw a hammer.

I still haven't.

They were not to be found anywhere in the stadium. All the other athletes were there—the runners and the jumpers and the hurdlers and the vaulters—but not the hammer boys. I had just about abandoned by search for them when I chanced to see this little notice on page 22 of the official program:

"Turn to page 12 to learn the location of the hammer throw, which takes place outside the stadium to the south. Spectators wishing to witness this competition should leave stadium by gate in rear of section 1."

One glance at page 12 convinced me that there was no use looking for the hammer throwers. Because page 12 was a map of what appeared to be the United States east of the Mississippi river, and way down in one corner was—no, not an x marking the spot where the hammer throwers were performing—only an arrow lettered "This way to the hammer throw."

I later talked to a fellow who had tried to make the trip to the land of the hammer hermits. This fellow said he had given up, when, after a third change of railroads, the conductor had told him he would be obliged to engage an Indian guide and a canoe for the final stages of the journey.

The more I thought about the hammer throwers going through their performance miles from the championships proper, and without benefit of audience, and the more I wondered why college boys ever take up the sport. The average athlete likes the roar of the crowd and the roar of the presses that print his name on the sports page.

Too, from the descriptions I have heard of the sport, it doesn't sound like the most fascinating or thrilling business in the world. In fact, it sounds almost as dull as putting the shot, and I have always rated putting the shot as an event with a fascination quota of nothing flat minus three and a half.

But it seems my rating of both sports is wrong. Wrong in the estimation of Brutus Hamilton, anyway, and Brutus, being track coach at the University of California, should know. Brutus could watch a shot putter put for hours. Says he gets a tremendous bang out of the grace, coordination and timing that is necessary to make the cannonball soar through the air. I sat with him while the big fellows were putting and such expressions as "beautiful" and "superb" and "splendid" escaped his lips. He did admit, however, that shot putting is an acquired taste.

Motoring Bill 7 Millions

Outlay Equals 10 Per Cent Of Total National Income; One In Five Has Car

By FRED BAILEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, (UP)—American motorists spent approximately $7,500,000,000—more than 10 per cent of the national income—last year on their automobiles, statistics compiled by the Bureau of Public Roads disclosed.
The largest item—approximately $3,500,000,000—was for purchases, accessories and repairs. There were more than 28,000,000 motor vehicles—one for every five persons—in the United States on Jan. 1 of this year.
Gasoline was the second largest expense, totaling approximately $3,000,000,000, of which nearly $1,000,000,000 went to states and the Federal government in gasoline taxes. State taxes amounted to $761,998,000.
Registration and inspection fees totaled approximately $350,000,000, all of which was collected by states and cities. Personal property taxes probably added $50,000,000 to the total cost, although no exact data was available on that.
Insurance—another item on which no data was available—was believed to have cost motorists an additional $150,000,000. Traffic fines probably added $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 to the total from state taxes.

500 Made Homeless By Floods In Kansas

SALINKA, Kan., (UP)—More than 500 families, driven from their homes in the eastern part of Salina by the worst flood in 30 years, were given emergency shelter today. The crest of the flood on the Smoky Hill river moved downstream toward Junction City after cresting 23.23 feet here. The highest point of the disastrous 1927 flood was 22.60 feet.
The flooded Saline and Solomon rivers empty into the Smoky Hill east of here and it was feared that damage would be heavy in the Abilene and Junction City vicinities.

Cattlemen of Modoc County are protesting the 30 per cent reduction in cattle permitted in national forests.

cost of automobile operation.

Assuming an average of 16 miles per gallon of gasoline, motorists drove a distance of nearly 200,000,000 miles last year. That estimate did not include 650,000,000 gallons used in farm tractors and stationary engines and exempt from state taxes.
